| Bridgeport, Wise County, Tex., July 19, -One George Adams, about 19 years of age, was struck with lightning, while out hauling oats, about 3 o'clock, in the afternoon. He had driven home from the field and had begun to pitch the oats off the wagon to one C. W. Ellis, who was stacking for him. Shortly after they had begun their work a stroke of lightning struck young Adams and instantly killed him and knocked Mr. Ellis off the stack, killing one of the oxen they were working, and setting fire to the oats, and would have burned the dead man, only that the party who was stacking regained his consciousness in time to get the deceased out of the way and loosen the ox that was not killed. | WILLIAM ANDERSON KILLED. A Railroad Engine Strikes his Head Crushing It. -Last Thursday night the North bound passenger train, which passes through Denton struck a bridge man by the name of William Anderson, on the head causing his immediate death. It seems that Anderson had been riding a railroad velocipede and was trying to get it off the track but slipped, the pilot of the engine striking him. The engineer of the passenger train stated that he saw the object on the track too late to stop the train. 'Squire R. H. Hopkins viewed the remains Friday morning and rendered his verdict. The remains were brought to Denton and a local undertaker took the remains in charge. A brother of Anderson came up from Itasca Saturday and took the remains to that city for interment. -Denton County News, March 30, 1899, p.1, c.3. | | | | | |
| WAS KILLED INSTANTLY. William Anderson, a Texas and Pacific Bridgeman, Killed by an Engine. -William Anderson, a member of the Texas and Pacific bridge gang at Mingo, was run into and killed at that place at 11:45 o'clock Thursday night by the Missouri, Kansas and Texas passenger train No. 4. The back of his head was crushed in, his face scarred and his body badly bruised all over, the shock throwing his body nearly 90 feet. The wound in the head caused his death, which was almost instantaneous. Anderson had been to Denton and was returning to his quarters at Mingo on a railroad velocipede. He was only a few hundred feet this side of the station when the engine struck him. The velocipede was torn to pieces. The engineer of No. 4 says he saw Anderson just before he was struck, but as the velocipede was then only about 60 feet away he was unable to stop the train in time to avoid the collison. The remains were picked up and carried to the bridge gang cars, where they were viewed by Squire Hopkins Friday, whose verdict was in accordance with the facts stated above. Anderson was a single man about 45 years of age and had relatives, it is said, in Hillsboro and also at Plano. | | | | | |

| YOUNG LADY DROPS DEAD. Mary Frances Barnes Died Suddenly Friday. Miss Mary Frances Barnes, aged about sixteen years, died suddenly Friday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Barnes on Collins street in the south part of the city. Death was due to heart failure it is supposed. Friday, Miss Barnes attended school as usual and was apparently as well as could be when she returned home. The first intimation of her sickness came when a member of the family entered the dining room and found the girl sitting in a chair gasping for breath. Other members of the family who were in the yard were called, but before they could reach the room, the young lady was dead. Deceased was about sixteen years old and had resided in Denton practically all of her life. She was a student in the Denton High school. Funeral services were held Saturday at 12:30 o'clock and the remains taken to Old Alton cemetery for interment. The sudden death of Miss Barnes is the second of the kind to have occurred this week, the other being that of Miss Hayes, a young lady of about the same age and also a student in the high school. -Denton Record-Chronicle, Feb. 13, 1908, p.2, c.1 | | | | | |

| Mrs. Elizabeth J. Bates was born in Barron county, Kentucky, December 13, 1819, and was married to the late W. H. Bates December 9, 1837. The young couple moved to Texas in the fall of 1852, and settled near Nacogdoches, but moved from there in the fall of 1853 to Denton county, settling near Bates, in the eastern part of the county, where they lived for many years. They afterwards moved to Denton where her husband, the late W. H. Bates, our postmaster at one time. Deceased had been a member of the M. E. Church, South, since 1850, and had ever been a zealous Christian mother, loved and respected by all who knew her. She was one of the early settlers of Denton county, and had witnessed the long and bitter struggle of the South, the pioneer days of Texas, when the Indian roamed over the prairies, and the later days of peace when the reaper and the plow came to make the country what it is today. Ever and always she was a kind and loving mother and a woman of honor and worth. She leaves nine children to mourn her loss, besides numerous grandchildren-six sons, R. H., C. W. and J. D. | BEAL, W. H. | | | | July 13, 1884 | |
| A bloody tragedy occurred at about 1 o'clock on the morning of July 13th. At that hour two pistol shots rang out on the still air, followed by three more. A few straggling people out on the streets and several patrolmen hastened to the house whence the sounds came, and were shown by the thoroughly aroused and bewildered inmates, to a room in the third story. The door was locked on the inside, but yielded to the heavy pressure of several men, and the eye beheld under the brightly beaming gas, two dead bodies lying side by side, and two feet apart. In the privacy of their room, W. H. Beal, mailing clerk for Sanger Bros., and J. B. Strange, book-keeper for Mitchell & Scruggs, had engaged in a hot dispute, then a scuffle, destructive to tables, chairs, bed clothes and other articles in the room occupied by them, and then died each from a pistol shot in the region of the heart. Two pistols of 38-callibre lay by the bodies, showing that each man had a weapon. Beal lay naked, save his drawers, in a pool of blood, and Strange divested of coat and shoes, presented an equally ghastly sight. Both were promising young men under 30 years of age, holding responsible positions in business, and were devoted friends for four years, most of that time roommates. Both were Virginians. -Alvord Messenger, Aug. 8, 1884, p.3, c.4. | | | | | |

Beckett, a farmer, who lives about three miles northeast of Plano, were all poisoned except one of the children, from eating cooked dried peaches for supper last Thursday evening. Mrs. Beckett, the mother, was first taken violently ill, vomiting a great deal after eating supper. The next day the father and four children were taken sick with the same symptoms as Mrs. Beckett, who died yesterday evening and was buried to-day. It seems the children only had a light attack, and Mr. Beckett is said to be recovering and will likely get well. All of the family partook of the fruit except one of the children, who was not taken ill, which led to the belief that they were poisoned from eating the fruit. -Denton County News, February 4, 1897, p.3, c.1. | | | | | |

The killing was done in Ryan's saloon by Hollar cutting Black's throat with a knife, severing the jugular vein, from which he died almost instantly. The parties had had a difficulty sometime before during the day, in which Hollar was worsted. Accounts of the affair that have reached here are conflicting as to how the killing occurred. | KILLING AT PILOT POINT. A Quarrel Between Two Gamblers Results in One Killing the Other - The Murderer Arrested. Pilot Point, Denton County, Tex., July 19. - Yesterday evening between 8 and 9 o'clock, John Black was murdered in Ryan's saloon by Dolph Hollar, the latter cutting Black's throat from which he bled to death in less than ten minutes. During the afternoon yesterday the parties had an altercation in which Black is said to have struck Hollar in the face with his fist, felling him to the floor. John Black went from there to Ryan's saloon, where the killing occurred. A little later, about half an hour after, Hollar went to Ryan's saloon, walked directly to where Black was standing with his left arm resting on the bar and said: "John, I understand you are looking for me." Black replied, "No, I am not looking for you or anybody else." With these words Hollar struck Black a blow on his neck with his knife, the point entering under or back of his right ear and extending downward to the top of the breast bone, severing the jugular vein, from which he rapidly bled to death. Both parties to the tragedy had been drinking, and Hollar was visibly under the influence of liquor. A. Hollar is a farmer living three or four miles south of town and an ex-saloon keeper, having sold out last spring and returned to farming, but contracted the bad habit of drinking and gambling. He is about thirty years old and unmarried. Shortly after killing Black he went to the stable to get his horse to go home, and was there arrested by Constable Johnson and taken to Denton to jail last night. John Black, the murdered man, was the son of a widow living here. He was about twenty-two years old and was professionally a gambler. The jury of inquest is investigating the case. -Fort Worth daily gazette, July 20, 1891, p.1. | | | | | |

| AN AGED RESIDENT DEAD. One of the Oldest Citizens of Denton Passes Away Last Night. -After a lingering illness, which had lasted through many months, Judge J. M. Blount quietly passed away at the family residence on South Elm street in this city, last night. Judge Blount had been a resident of Denton for about forty two years and had always been closely identified with the interest of the city, county and state, until on account of his health, he was compelled to retire from active business life. He had been honored by the citizens politically, holding the office of Chief Justice of Denton county in its early days and later being elected to the State Senate. On account of his sterling worth he had always enjoyed the confidence and esteem of all with whom he was connected. He was 77 years of age and leaves his wife and four children besides a large number of grand and great-grandchildren. He was a member of the Masons, which order will probably conduct the funeral rites, and also the Odd Fellows. | JUDGE BLOUNT DEAD. He Died at His Home Last Night - An Old Settler. -Judge J. M. Blount, a pioneer citizen of Denton county, and in his prime one of the prominent men of North Texas, died at his home on South Elm street at 7:55 o'clock last night. He was a few months past 76 years of age. Death was caused by cancer, from which he had suffered for a long time, superinduced by a severe attack of la grippe, which his enfeebled constitution was unable to stand. His second wife and his four living children were with him when the death summons came. Judge J. M. Blount was born in Mississippi in 1822. In 1840 he was married to Miss Sophie Caudle and they lived in Mississippi until 1856, when they moved to Texas, settling in Denton county. With Judge Carroll, Judge Welch and others, Judge Blount laid out the city of Denton. He was elected county judge a few years after his arrival in Denton county which position he held for several terms. In 1866, he ran for and was elected to the state senate, but, with the other state officials elected at that time, was removed by the Federal government as being inimical to the progress of reconstruction. After that time he also held several minor city and county offices. He was a Royal Arch Mason and a consistent member of the First Baptist church. He was a man well liked by everybody who knew him and was a man whom anybody could implicitly trust and was a good example of the pioneers who are responsible for the development of such a country as this. Surviving him, besides his wife, are four children - Mrs. J C Smith, Keller, Mrs. C W Gears, Mrs. Alvin C Owsley, and Dr. J P Blount of Denton. The burial will take place at the city cemetery to-morrow, Friday morning. -Denton County Record and Chronicle, Feb. 28, 1899, p.8, c.5 | | | | | |

| JESSIE M. BLOUNT. -Jessie M. Blount died at his home on South Elm street, in city of Denton, Texas, on Wednesday, February 22, 1899, aged 78 years. He was born in Carroll county, state of Mississippi, and at the age of eighteen married Miss Sophia Candle, and in the year of 1856, came to Denton county. In about the year 1858 he moved to the town of Denton, where he has ever since resided. He was ever known for his sterling integrity and sturdiness of character. His fellow citizens recognized his worth and elected him to offices of trust. He was Chief Justice (county judge) of Denton county during our late civil war. He served several terms as justice of the peace, and also as recorder for the city of Denton. he served one term as state senator of this senatorial district. James M. Blount dared to do right under every circumstance and condition of life. He was a member of the American Legion of Honor, a Royal Arch Mason and a consistent and consecrated Christian. He gave his soul to Christ in his sixteenth year, and united with the Baptists and about the year 1858 joined the First Baptist church of Denton, to whom he gave the light of his love and counsel for more than forty years. Together with W. G. Wilson, J. B. Brandon, Wm. A. Clark and J. R. McCormick, the first three of whom preceded him to the church triumphant above, he was elected trustee of the First Baptist church of Denton in 1874, which office he held with satisfaction to all up to the time of his death. His life, love, counsel and financial aid did much to build up the cause of Christ not only in the city of Denton and Denton county, cut also, in the great field beyond. He left to survive him his wife, Mrs. Aleta Blount, whom he married in 1869, and four children, Mrs. Lucy C. Smith, Mrs. Louisa S. Geers, Mrs. Sallie M. Owsley and Dr. James P. Blount, and a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren. -Denton County News, April 6, 1899, p.1, c.2. | | | | | |

| A SUDDEN DEATH. A Texas and Pacific Brakeman Falls From an Engine and Killed. About 5 o'clock last Saturday afternoon a brakeman by the name of Bridges, who was assisting in switching in the yard in this city, became benumbed by the cold and was run over by the train. It seems that Bridges was riding on the pilot of the engine and fell off and was run over before any one knew that he was gone. The trainmen missed him and upon looking back saw him by the track. He was cut nearly in two, the engine having run over the middle of the body and one hand. The man was already dead when picked up by the train crew. Another brakeman on the train stated that the parts of the body which was mashed was frozen to the rails. The train crew carried the body to the freight depot, where Justice Selman of Pilot Point, held an inquest over the remains Sunday morning, Justice Hopkins having been too ill to hold the inquest. Bridges was a new man on this division, this being the first trip that he had made over it. His home was at Bonham, having moved there a short time back from Dry Grove, Miss., where his parents reside. The body was held here for instructions from his family, but they lived in the country and could not be heard from and it was interred in the City cemetery yesterday after services at the First Baptist church. -Denton County News, Feb. 16, 1899, p.7, c.3. | | | | | |

| Wichita Falls, May 20.-News has reached here of the killing at Henrietta of C. M. Burgess, who killed R. M. Donley last November, by W. R. Curtis, one of the largest stock-men of North Texas. The killing was the result of an old trouble and the difficulty had been expected for some time. Curtis was standing in the postoffice about 2 p.m. to-day, and Burgess, in passing Curtis, whose back was toward the door, ran against him and looked at Curtis, Burgess holding his hand in his pocket as if he intended drawing his pistol. Curtis seeing this and knowing of previous threats, drew his pistol and shot Burgess, who turned and staggered toward the door, Curtis still shooting at him. Burgess fell dead at the door, only about 200 feet from where he killed Donley. There were two other men wounded accidentally, but not supposed to be seriously hurt. Curtis was taken to jail where he sent word to the wounded men that he would pay all their expenses for the time while they were in bed, and if permanently disabled would fully provide for them. -Wise County Messenger, May 25, 1883, p.4, c.2. | | | | | |

| CANTWELL, BUD | | | Sept. 12, 1881 | | |
| Weatherford, Sept. 12. -Dr. Cantwell and his son, Bud Cantwell, citizens of this county, were killed this morning by A. Cox. It seems Cox was a renter of Dr. Cantwell, and a suit had been the result of a disagreement regarding his crop. This morning Dr. Cantwell, two of his sons and four hired men began gathering corn cultivated by Cox, when the latter forbid them and ordered all hands to leave the field. His order was not obeyed and he went immediately to get arms. Taking his Winchester rifle and a double barreled shotgun borrowed from a neighbor he returned to the field. Bud Cantwell, having a gun, approached him and said he was ready to settle the matter. Cox asked if he wanted to settle it that way? (pointing to Cantwell's gun.) Cantwell replied "yes", and each fired at the other instantly. Cantwell's shot took effect in Cox's head and side of the face, making a severe but not mortal wound. Cox shot twice, striking both times, the last causing death instanter. Dr. Cantwell, the father, rushed to assist his son, when Cox used his Winchester, missing the first fire, but killing at the second. The Cantwells are old citizens, Cox is but lately known. Sheriff Johnson was notified by Cox to come and arrest him, and the Sheriff will bring him tonight. -Paradise Messenger, Sept. 23, 1881, p.2, c.2. | | | | | |

| A MAN SUICIDES. Uses a Pistol for the Destruction of His Life - Attempts to Take the Life of Another. -New reached this town Monday of the suicide of Al Chambers, whose home is south of Lebanon, just across the Collin county line, the killing having occurred early Sunday morning. It seems that Saturday Chambers, who is a man about 35 years of age, and whose mother lived with him became despondent and tried to persuade his mother to let him kill her and then kill himself as life was not worth living. The mother dissuaded him from the act and he went off and nothing more was thought of the matter until early Sunday morning when Chambers entered his aged mother's room flourishing a .38 calibre pistol and declaring that their end was near. He then shot twice at his mother but both shots missed, and she took refuge behind his back, calling all the time for help. Chambers continued shooting over his shoulder until five shots in all were fired, fortunately all of which missed the mark. A hired man rushed into the room about this time and Chambers sent the remaining bullet crashing through his brain, killing himself almost instantly. Despondency is the sole cause of the trouble though what caused him to be despondent has not been found out as he was in good circumstances, owning a good black land farm and other property, beside having money in a bank at McKinney. The interment of the man's remains after an inquest was held at the Rowletts cemetery in the afternoon. -Denton County News, June 15, 1899, p.1, c.4. | | | | | |

Domestic trouble led to Mrs. Clark's return to her father's domicile after a brief honeymoon some four months ago. She and a small brother had gone to the school together and met Mr. Clark there, who tried to converse with her. When they started home their horses had been "cut loose." She accepted her husband's horse to ride home. Some one had placed burrs under the saddle and the moment she mounted the animal dashed away, and as she fell her clothing hung to the pommel of the saddle and she was swung to and fro against trees, stumps, brush, etc., for a half a mile and last night ended her young and sad life. - Dallas Morning News, November 26, 1886, p.3. | | | | | |

| JAILER COBERLY MURDERED. By a Desperate Negro Prisoner. Three Negroes Out. But Are Returned to Their Cells After a Short Chase by the Officers. The Murderer Taken to Fort Worth for Safety. -Floyd Coberly, jailer of the county, and an honorable and peaceable citizen, is dead, the victim of a brutal and desperate black prisoner. George Henry, the negro, is in the Fort Worth jail for safe keeping and under indictment for murder in the first degree. The particulars of the murder, as gathered by the NEWS reporter, are as follows: At about 11:30 a.m., Jailer Coberly went to upper row of jail cells, which are used for negro prisoners, to gather up the dishes. The white prisoners, confined in the lower cells, immediately under the negro quarters, heard noise above of a blow and a fall, and saw Mr. Coberly fall from the upper gallery to the lower floor. He was unconscious when he fell, but was followed by George Henry, a negro prisoner, who dealt him two blows on the head with a stick of wood. After hitting the prostrate man Henry went to the uper cells and immediately came down accompanied by two other negro prisoners, Arthur Gilmore and Will Miller. They went out into the jail office, but Henry returned with a pistol and placed it at Coberly's side as if he intended to shoot him. The white prisoners begged him not to shoot and told him the man was already dead. He turned and went out and all three negroes escaped through the office, down stairs and out of a north window. It is thought that when Mr. Coberly threw the lever to lock the cell doors, while he was in the upper corridor, that Henry left his door slightly open and the bolt failed to catch his lock, and when the jailer stepped in he struck him on the head with a stick of wood, and either knocked or threw him to the floor below. Mr. Coberly had only been appointed jailer a little more than a week before his tragic death. When appointed he lived at Little Elm, at which place and vicinity he had lived a number of years. He was held in the highest esteem by the people of that community as a peacable, law-abiding citizen of strict integrity and sterling worth. Deceased was about thirty-five years old and leaves an aged father, four brothers and a sister, all married, and a majority of whom live in the eastern part of the county. Tuesday the remains of the deceased were removed to the Odd Fellows' hall, being a member of that order, and remained there until about 7 p.m., when relatives and friends started to Little Elm, where the interment took place yesterday under the auspices of the Odd Fellows. -Denton County News, Feb. 25, 1897, p.1, c.2. | | | | | |

| The interment of the remains of the late Floyd Coberly in Cottonwood Cemetery at Little Elm last Wednesday afternoon was attended by a very large crowd of people estimated to number about 1,000. The funeral was under the auspices of the Odd Fellows. Besides the members of the lodge at Little Elm the lodges of the order from Lewisville, Denton, Rector and Lone Elm were all well represented. The sad death of Mr. Coberly brought sorrow to the hearts of the people in his home community, and their universal expression was that by it they had lost a good neighbor and warm friend and Denton county an upright and useful citizen. -Denton County News, March 4, 1897, p.8, c.2. | | | | | |

| FOUND DEAD IN HER BED. MISS VEDA COFFEY DIED SOME TIME IN EARLY HOURS OF SATURDAY MORNING. BODY WAS DISCOVERED WHEN LIFE WAS GONE. Young Lady Was Twenty Years of Age - Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Coffey of this Place. Last Saturday morning at an early hour the remains of Miss Veda Coffey, the 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Coffey, were found her room at the family home south of the city, she having evidently passed quietly away just before being discovered by relatives in her bed with the face turned to the pillow. The deceased, it is said, was subject to epileptic troubles which may have been the cause of her sudden and most unexpected death. For several days, her parents say, she had been complaining of feeling rather bad, but it was not thought that anything of a serious nature was wrong, so she had been up and around the home the evening before in her usual cheerful mood. Her smaller sister occupied the same bed as she and the little girl did not know of her death until she was awakened by the family when they discovered her sister's death the following morning. Upon discovering the girl in that condition a physician was hastily summoned, but to no purpose, as she had evidently been dead only a few minutes when found, it was evidently a death without struggle, no agony or alarm being heard by the family who were in the room adjoining. The interment and funeral were held Sunday and the former being held at the city cemetery. The parents and relatives of the deceased have the sympathy of the community. -Denton County News, Feb. 14, 1905, p.2, c. 5. | | | | | |

When found the body was still warm and it is thought that death occurred only a few minutes before the mother entered the room. The young lady was subject to epileptic attacks, and it is thought that her death was due to this cause. Death evidently came without a struggle as a smaller child who was sleeping in the same bead did not awake until called byher mother. -Dallas Morning news, February 12, 1905, p.22 | | | | | |

| TWO NEGROES KILLED. In a Fight Among Themselves Near Parvin, In This County. Will Mitchell Shoots to Death Jim and George Crutchfield, and is in Turn Mortally Wounded. -One of the most bloody, beligerant and exterminating fights ever heard of occurred in this county, 18 miles northeast of Denton near Parvin Tuesday morning. Jim Crutchfield, Sr., is an old negro who is more energetic and reliable than most of his race and through the exercise of these faculties has bought, improved and stocked a good farm on which he has reared a large family, among whom are Jim, George and Ollie, three grown sons. | | | | | |
| Will Mitchell is another negro who lives in the neighborhood, and whose horse had recently been getting young Jim Crutchfield's cotton patch. At 8 o'clock Tuesday morning Jim and George Crutchfield met Mitchell near their home and asked him to keep his horse out of the cotton. Mitchell replied that if they wanted him out they could keep him out themselves. It is stated that the Crutchfield's made a demonstration of some kind, and then Mitchell drew a pistol and fired at Jim striking him squarely in the heart. He then turned the pistol on George and fired twice, the first ball penetrating his breast near the heart and the second going through his bowels. | | | | | |
| Mitchell started to walk away, but George Crutchfield had cralwed to the dead body of his brother Jim and secured his pistol with which he shot Mitchell squarely through the bowels. | DAVIS, dau. Of Mr. | Wooten Ford | | | | |
| A daughter of Mr. Mockingbird Davis was recently drowned in the Guadalupe, twelve miles above Gonzales. Mr. Davis was crossing at Wooten Ford, said to be one of the best fords on the river. Suddnely he found his horses in swimming water. His wife, with a three months' babe and four other children, got out on the right side of the wagon, and all got safely to bank. Mr. Davis and a daughter about twelve years old, and very large for her years, being almost a woman in stature, got out on the left side, and the daughter was drowned. Mr. Davis seems to know very little about the whole affair, and Mr. Davis thinks the water made his head swim and he became so dizzy as to lose self-control. Boats were secured and the river dragged. Once the drag came up with long hair on it, which the parents recognized as the hair of their daughter. Negroes were hired and dived, after the body, but up to Sunday evening the body had not been found. - Wise County Messenger, April 18, 1885, p.10, c.2 | | | | | |

Dawson, who was for a number of years a prominent business man of Denton, but who has been managing the business in this state for the Winship Machine and Gin Co., at Dallas, died at his home in this city about the noon hour Tuesday. He was struck very suddenly Tuesday morning with apoplexy and never regained consciousness. Deceased was over 56 years of age and leaves his wife and four children to survive him. His death coming so suddenly, was a shock to his many friends, not only in Denton, but all over the state and they join the mourning relatives in their grief. | MORTUARY. DAWSON - Denton, Tex., Feb. 21. - H. H. Dawson died here at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon, aged 56 years. Death was caused by apoplexy, which struck him at between 6 and 7 o'clock this morning, and from which he never rallied, remaining unconscious and recognizing nobody up to his death. The stroke, it is thought, came on him while asleep, as when Mrs. Dawson, his wife, got up he was breathing stertorously and it was only a few moments afterward that his son, Tom, discovered him lying on the bed barely breathing. Medical assistance was immediately called in, but, as stated above, he never recovered consciousness. Three of his four children were at the bedside. The deceased was a prominent citizen of this place, to which he came from Dallas in 1890. He was an Alabamian by birth, in which state he received his education. At the time of his death Mr. Dawson was general manager for Texas, Louisiana, Indian and Oklahoma Territories of the Winship Gin company of Atlanta, Ga. Surviving him the deceased leaves a wife and four children, to-wit: Mrs. E. L. Hann and Tom H. Dawson of this place, H. H. Dawson, Jr., a traveling man at present in Louisiana, and A. Grif. Dawson, correspondent of The News at Fort Worth. The burial will take place here, but the time to date has not yet been decided upon. -Dallas Morning News, February 22, 1899, p.10 | | | | | |

| WEATHERFORD. THE MORPHINE ROUTE. WEATHERFORD, TEX., Oct. 23. -Late last night, W. L. Dunn called for a bed at the Tennessee house, stating at the time that he did not want to be wakened at all as he hadn't slept any for two or three nights. This morning about 9 o'clock the attention of the clerk was drawn by the hard breathing of the man, and making his way into the room he found that Dunn was almost dead. Doctors J. C. McCoy and J. R. McKenzie were summoned and found the prostrated man was a victim of too much morphine, having taken thirty-seven and a half grains. It is evident that he intended to suicide, and was too far gone for any thing to be done for him, and before 10 o'clock he had breathed his last. This man worked this year on the farm of Mr. Hatcheler, about three miles east of this place. He has been in the town for about a week on a spree, and was charged in the county court using insulting and obscene language, near a house where he has been living, and also making some serious threats against a man in the same neighborhood. His trial was set for the 27th of this month. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict that the deceased came to his death by an overdose of morphine. ...-Fort Worth daily gazette, Oct. 24, 1885, p.4. | | | | | |

| DEPARTED. Armie B. Egan, aged 22 years, and brother of the Sheriff of the county, departed this life on Tuesday night last, the 11th of April, 1876, and was buried at the Odd Fellows' Cemetery on Wednesday evening. A long funeral cortege followed the remains to their last resting place. The services at the tomb were conducted by Rev. J. C. Smith who was assisted by Rev. W. S. May. The scene at the grave, especially as the aged parents and other relatives took their last leave of the deceased, was painfully solemn indeed, and all the assembly seemed sadly affected. The tears and sobs of grief as the corpse descended into the grave, and the chilling thud of the clods upon the coffin were productive of such mental pain that the spectators began to begin to disperse in their unwillingness to longer endure the anguish of the sad scene. >Armie was a fine-looking and promising young man; always affable, generous and kind, and never out of humor. His death, at the threshold of manhood, is a grave loss, and we mingle our tears with those of the sorrowing family. -Scrapbook, paper unknown, April 12, 1876. | | | | | |

| Her death closed the life of one of Denton county's oldest settlers, she and her husband having settled on that place in 1859. This was just two years after the city of Denton was laid out. She leaves seven children surviving her, three of whom are in California, one in Missouri and three to this county. Mrs. Egan's life was one of loving devotion to her children and friends and she will be sadly missed from her place in the family. She was a member of the Christian church and through her life in word and deed exemplified her profession to Christianity. | DEATH OF DR. A. M. ELMORE. Prominent Texan and Veteran Confederate Surgeon Reaches End of Useful Life. >Ripe in years, rounded in character, large in experience and broad in his love of his fellow men, Dr. Alexander Marion Elmore passed quietly away early yesterday morning at his home on Thomas avenue. At the time there were by his bedside his wife and his six living children. News of his death brought expressions of sorrow from hundreds of friends in this city and at Pilot Point, and from the State in which his childhood was passed. >Missouri was his native State and he was born in the eastern part of the State of Aug. 20, 1837. His early education was obtained in the town of his birth. At the age of fifteen he came with his father and mother to Texas and helped them to build their home on Red River near the present town of Gainesville. At that time it was a wild frontier place and the opportunities for even a young man to obtain an education were measured by his efforts and determination. >Early in life he determined to become a physician, and being of studious inclination he read at home many of the medical books. Gifted with strong mental powers he understood readily and his memory was always wonderfully retentive. He was well qualified later to enter a class under the tutorship of Dr. McKenzie of Paris, Tex., whose reputation as an educator was large. Finishing the course at Paris, a short course brought a diploma in medicine from the St. Louis College of Medicine. >For some years he practiced. When the Civil War began he enlisted promptly in the Confederate Army and was assigned at once to the hospital corps of physicians and surgeons. His skill in caring for the sick and wounded of the Confederacy won him great renown. After the war, with his fortunes ruined he began a new the practice of medicine. >On Jan. 1, 1862, | | | | | |

| FORD, wife Of | Aurora | | | April 24, 1885 | |
| Aurora April 24 - A sad occurrence took place about nine miles south of our town on Wednesday. Mrs. Ford, from Crafton, while on her way from Fort Wroth to her home, became frightened at one of the horses that was driven in the wagon and died immediately. The body was brought on to Aurora, where a coffin was procured and the body taken on to Crafton. The party drove to the Aurora hotel with the corpse about dark, and the ladies responded nobly, as they always do in cases of this kind, and gave all the assistance in their power in paying attention to the body. It is supposed that Mrs. Ford died from heart disease, as she had been in bad health for several years. Mr. Ford we understand is a resident of Crafton and had been to Fort Wroth with a bunch of cattle and was on his return home. - Wise County Messenger, May 2, 1885, p.1, c.3 | | | | | |

| Killing at Pilot Point Last Night. News has just been received here that a drunken row during the democratic ratiication in Pilot Point last night resulted in the killing of John French by a drunk man by the name of Walter Vowel. >French lived in town and is a young man of excellent character, and when it was learned that he had been killed a crowd gathered with the intention of hanging him, but sheriff Mars arrested Vowel and hid him out and lodged him in the Denton jail this morning. The artery of French's left arm was severed and he bled to death. -Denton County News, Nov. 17, 1892, p.3, c.5. | | | | | |
| JOHN FRENCH KILLED. Pilot Point, Tex., Nov. 17. -After the speaking last night a number of participants in the evening's demonstration indulged freely in whisky. | THE PILOT POINT KILLING. Vowel's Trial Held and Amount of Bail Named. -A few copies of the NEWS were sent out last week before the intelligence was received. For the benefit of those readers we re-print a report of the affair that Vowell's examining trial has been held and his bond fixed at $2,500 which he has so far failed to give: | | | | | |
| "On Wednesday night about 10 o'clock, after the crowd had dispersed from the ratification a sad affair occurred in the saloon at the northwest corner of the square in which a young man, John French, was killed. A number of young men some of them drinking, were in the saloon scuffling and boasting. A collision ensued between John French and Walter Vowell, in which French was stabbed in the left arm with a knife, severing an artery. Vowel was at once arrested by Deputy Sheriff Spangler. French was taken to the drug store of Dr. Ragland, who in a very few moments stopped the flow of blood. Other physicians were sent for and the artery tied, but the loss of blood before reaching the drug store was so great the patient sank rapidly and died in about two hours. | | | | | |
| Vowel whose home is near Mustang this county, was turned over to Sheriff mars, who was in the city and taken to Denton on the 6:28 morning train and placed in jail. The dead body of John French was taken to his parents home in the south part of town, who were not aware of the sad fate of their son until his body arrived. The burial took place at 8 p.m., yesterday at the Old Cemetery in the prescence of a large number of friends of the family. -Denton County News, Nov. 28, 1892, p.3, c.3. | | | | | |

Miss Mamie French and Uncle Andy Miller of Pilot Point are Both Dead - Both were Well Known. -A cloud of sorrow enveloped our entire community Wednesday morning when the word went out that Miss Mamie French was dead and all hearts hear in sympathy with the bereaved parents and family and many expressions of regret were heard that this estimable young lady had passed from among us. Miss Mamie was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. J. French. >During her brief residence in our city she had won many warm personal friends and the sympathy and interest of every one in the suffering she had endured from ill health. The cause of her death was lung trouble the result of a severe case of grip. Everything was done that medical advice could suggest to restore her health, but xshe gradually declined passing quietly and peacefully away at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning, being conscious upto almost the last moment. The funeral service was held Thursday morning at the C. P. church at 10 o'clock conducted by Revs. McConnell of Whitesboro and Curry, of Denton and her remains followed to their last resting place in Pilot Point cemetery by a large concourse of sympathising friends. -Denton County News, Jan. 14, 1904, p.5, c. 2 | | | | | |
| FRISBIE or FRISBY, Mr. | near Sunset | | | Sept./Oct. of 1883 | |
| A stranger in the town of Sunset borrowed a shot gun late yesterday evening and going into a cotton field near, killed a man by the name of Frisby, without any provocation as yet known. Frisby was in Alvord several times not long since, and claimed to have been but recently married. His wife was stopping at the Simmons' hotel while he was passing to and from our town, but he never ate there, was in the company of his wife but little and it was observed by some that he acted quite strangely. The stranger as he started to the field remarked that he was going to kill a man, and when he came back declared that he had killed him. -LATER: The stranger did not borrow a shot gun but used a pistol and did not return to town but made his escape and is not yet arrested. -Alvord Messenger, Oct. 5, 1883, p.4, c.4. | | | | | |
| -J. D. Jackson, a school teacher of this county, gave us a brief call on Tuesday. He says that Frank Frisbie, who was murdered last week near Sunset, was at one time a student of his and that he was a civil quiet young man, not disposed to be quarrelsome. It is said that the man who so foully murdered Frank Frisbie last week is from Hutto, Williamson county. His name is J. T. Womack, and he is described as being heavy set, six feet high, blue eyes, black mustache, light complexion and wore a light sack coat and pants. In going to Sunset to execute his murderous purpose, he got off the train at this place and hired a $90 horse from Mr. Ellis, which has not been returned. The thief and murderer is yet at large. -Alvord Messenger, Oct. 12, 1883, p.3, c.3. | | | | | |

| AN OLD LADY DIES SUDDENLY. -Mrs. Rebecca Fry, a seventy-eight years and six months old, died at about 9:30 Tuesday evening. Mrs. Fry, though in some measure an invalid for the past two years, was apparently as well Tuesday as she had been for a long time and ate a reasonably hearty supper. She retired early and at 9 o'clock aroused an attendant and told her she was sick and wanted a physician. Dr. Lipscomb was immediately sent for, but had only gotten in the house when she expired. The doctor attributed the sudden death to a general failure and debility which often occurs in old age. | | | | | |
| Deceased was the widow of L. M. Fry, who came from Tennessee to Denton in 1849 and where he lived until his death. Mrs. Fry was the mother of thirteen children, ten boys and three girls, nine of whom, all boys, are yet living. Of these, nine, Thos. T., D. H., Alex, J. F. and W. S. live at Denton. | BODY FOUND ENTANGLED IN DRIFT IN MORRIS CREEK. BODY OF GEORGE FULLER FOUND IN CREEK WEST OF PONDER. SWEEPED OFF HORSE BY HIGH WATERS. And Being Unable to Swim was Drowned - Search Found his Body Entangled in Mass of Drift Wood. -The dead body of George Fuller, aged about 25 years was found Monday afternoon about 2 or 3 o'clock entangled in a mass of driftwood in Morris branch, a small stream in the western part of the county beyond the little town of Ponder. The indications were that death had occurred about twenty four hours earlier. Fuller has this year been living on the Emory Wilkins place near Ponder. It being too wet to work Monday, he saddled a horse about two o'clock and started to visit at the home of a Mr. Potter on the Burnett ranch, a few miles distant, and across Morris branch. That night Fuller did not return home, but it was thought by his family that he had decided to remain over night with the Potters and nothing was thought of his absence. Tuesday morning members of Potter's family noticed a loose horse with a saddle grazing in the pasture and began an investigation. The horse was recognized as belonging to Fuller and was carried back to Fuller's home, where it was learned that the young man had left there the preceding day to go to Potters. As the horse when found was near the banks of the branch, the searching party immediately went there to make investigations. A short distance below the crossing were the tracks of the horse where it had scrambled out of the water and onto the bank but there were no signs of the missing man. The search was continued down the creek and about a half mile below the crossing the body was found. One of the searchers in walking along the bank of the creek saw Fuller's fingers and a portion of the hand rising above the water at the edge of a pile of driftwood. The body was found entangled in the drift and considerable difficulty was had in bringing it to the bank. It was known to some of those in the searching party that Fuller was unable to swim and it is surmised that he attempted to ford the creek and was swept off his horse by the high waters. Morris branch is only about twenty or thirty feet wide, but since the recent rains it has been much higher than usual and the current was very strong. Fuller evidently misjudged the depth and power of the water or trusted to his horse to get him safely across. George Fuller was reared in Denton county and was known to most everybody in the western section of the county where he had been for several years. He was, as stated above about 25 years old. He was single and had been living this year with his father on the Wilkins farm. Funeral services were held Wednesday and the body interred in the Aikens cemetery. -Denton County Record and Chronicle, April 16, 1908, p.1, c.1. | | | | | |

| INQUEST DECIDES THAT GARRISON SUICIDED. Squire T. E. Wood of Justin was here Monday and reported that the inquest held by him Saturday over the body of James Roy Garrison, 21-year-old son of W. B. Garrison, who was found dead with his throat cut southeast of Argyle Saturday morning, decided that it was a case of suicide. The deceased was 21 years of age at the time of his death, the cause of which was given to the Sheriff Saturday morning as suicide. Young Garrison was found in the yard of his father about daylight Sunday morning with his throat cut and a razor lying by his side. >Two brothers of the deceased, H. G. | KILLED BY THE CARS. J. A. Gordon of Krebs, I. T., Horribly Mangled in the Denton Texas Yesterday Morning. -About 12:30 Tuesday night south-bound freight train No. 203 ran over and terribly mangled the body of J. A. Gordon in the T. & P. and M., K. & T. yards between the passenger and freight depots. From A. W. Dean, a companion who was traveling with Gordon, the NEWS learned about the following particulars of the killing: Gordon, the unfortunate man, was about 21 years old, was reared in Arkansas, but his parents now live at Krebs, I. T., from which point he and Dean had started to Corryell county, Texas, particularly in search of farm work and incidentally to visit some of Gordon's relatives. They succeeded in beating their way to Denton on freights arriving here some time Tuesday, where they waited until the 11:45 M., K. & T. north-bound passenger came in, and meant to ride the first freight that went out to Fort Worth. Dean says that they took their stations by the side of the track as train No. 203 began to move out, Gordon catching on to the first car and he the next. He made the step safely and just as he climbed to the top of his box he saw Gordon being dragged and mangled by the wheels of the car just behind his. He had no way of signaling the train to stop and none of the crew saw the accident. The train ran on out of the yard and while it was climbing the hill south of town he jumped off and returned to Gordon and found him dead. Both his legs were almost served, his left arm crushed to pieces and his entrails and liver were protruding. Help was summoned and the body was placed in the freight depot. The officers telegraphed Gordon's parents who are both living at Krebs as to what disposal to make of his body. Dean, Gordon's companion is a young man about 25 years old and greatly shocked by the accident. -Denton County News, Aug. 23, 1894, p.1, c.3. | | | | | |

| J. C. GORE KILLS HIMSELF. Dead Body Found in Field Near Home with Bullet Hole in Forehead. Deceased Had Suffered with Consumption for Some Time - Target Rifle the Weapon Used. -The dead body of J. L. Gore was found at Corinth Thursday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock with a bullet hole in the forehead and a twenty-two calibre rifle clasped in one hand. Mr. Gore was about forty years old and had a long time been a sufferer from consumption, having been so sick lately that he was barely able to [unreadable] around. Several times he had threatened to take his life and Thursday morning told members of his family that he intended shooting himself. About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Gore took his target rifle and started for the field telling his wife that he was going to shoot a bird. At 5 o'clock he had not returned and a search was begun, which ended with the finding of the dead body. Gore's body was found about 25 yards from the residence and the indications were that he had shot himself soon after leaving home. A bullet hole was found in his forehead and his head was lying in a pool of blood. The rifle was laying under one leg and across the other, with one hand clasped about the barrell and the muzzle pointing toward the dead man's head. It was said by members of the family after the body was found that the deceased had several times intimated that he contemplated suicide and that on Thursday morning he said something about shooting himself. Little attention was paid to the remarks, however, as it was not thought that he was speaking seriously. Ill health, though had weakened his mind and the fact that his family was in destitute circumstances also probably had something to do with causing the rash act. The Gore family moved to Corinth about christmas time and lived on the Barne's place with Mrs. Lehman, Gore's mother-in-law. Last year the family lived on the Frank Rayzor place north of Denton. Justice of the Peace William McCormick Friday went to Corinth and viewed the remains. Acting as coroner he returned a verdict in keeping with the facts as above given. The body was Friday afternoon interred at the cemetery near Corinth. -Denton County Record and Chronicle, April 23, 1908, p.1, c.4. | | | | | |

| A SAD ACCIDENT. A Little Boy Killed by Being Thrown From a Cart. -Little Ellis Gough, aged 13 years, was fatally hurt three miles east of Little Elm, his home, last Thursday. Ellis had taken a Miss Wolf in her home near Rockhill in a cart and was returning to Little Elm when the deplorable accident occurred. No one knows just how it happened, as there were no eyewitnesses, but the general supposition is that the horse became frightened at a hayrake on the roadside and began running and kicking and kicked Ellis off the cart. He was found by a passer-by unconscious, his skull fractured and his body badly bruised. He was taken home and lived until Thursday, but was never rational. He died in great pain. His remains were buried at Cotton Wood cemetery Friday. J. S. Gough is his brother and Mesdames Drs. Rogers and Carpenter, of Little Elm, his sisters. Ellis was a gentlemanly little fellow and his death is deeply deplored by the entire community. --Denton County News, July 26, 1894, p.8, c.4. | | | | | |

Baker of Grapevine and Rev. J. J. Moore of Lewisville. The deceased was born August 22, 1866, and married T. A. Grisham on November 30, 1884. She leaves a husband, five children and a host of friends and relatives to mourn her loss. Nothing more could be said of any person than could truthfully be said of her. She was a christian at home and abroad. The husband has lost the brightest jewel of his life, the children, a loving, affectionate mother, the church one of its best members and the community, one of its best friends. While we bow in humble submission to the will of Him that doeth all things well, we realize that our loss is her gain. May the blessing of God be upon the bereaved husband and the children. May the Holy Spirit lead them out on fields of usefulness so that when the death angel comes and reaches for them they can say as mother said, "I'll be at rest." -W. T. | John. W. Hale, whose death after an illness of several long weeks duration, we briefly noted last week, was one of the very few settlers remaining who came into this country before it was made a country. He had attained the age of 61 years, having been born in Hardeman country, Tenn., in the year 1824. He has lived in this town and vicinity, witnessing the joys and griefts, the fortunes and misfortunes of Wise county history during the eventful period of the last thirty-one yeras, having located here in 1854. His life since his advent to this country has been nearly an entire life of public business in one capacity of another. Being an excellent surveyor, he filled the position of county surveyor for several years and was probably more conversant with the land surveys of this county than any man within her borders. In the haleyon days of the calm that preceded the storm which burst upon our country in 1861, he was called to sit in the councils of the State of Austin. more recently he has filled no positions of official trust, yet his life has been a public one, being engaged in land and legal business with Granger Salmon for many years preceding 1882, at which time Mr. Salmon died. An old landmark and respected citizen was follwed to the grave by the largest funeral procession that has ever wended the streets of Decatur. another page of wise county's history has been folded and filed in the archives ob oblivion, where no mortal can transcribe it. - Wise County Messenger, June 27, 1885, p.6, c.4 | | | | | |

| The buggy reached this side of the creek in safety, but in coming up the bank which was wet and slippery, the horses slipped and Mr. Harmonson urged them forward and the single trees broke. | YOUNG MAN DROWNED. DENTON, TEX., Jan. 26. - William Harrington, a young man highly respected and well known in this country, was drowned yesterday afternoon in the Elm river about six miles east of this city. He had charge of the large pasture belonging to Mr. C. W. Guild of Dallas, and was out with some parties having the fences repaired, and as he was very weak, having just recovered from a spell of sickness, it is supposed he went to the bank to get a drink of water, and the bank being steep, staggered and fell into the water, which at this place is about nine feet deep. A search was made for the body and it was found today about 10 o'clock near where is appeared he had fallen into the water. Mr. Harrington had a good farm four miles from Denton. He was unmarried, but leaves a widowed mother and sister to mourn his loss, who have the sympathy of the entire communtiy. -Decatur News, Jan. 30, 1890, p.1, c.3. | | | | | |

| REV. JOHN HAYNES. Rev. John Haynes, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. E. Mounts, in Denton last Wednesday night at 12 o'clock, was buried at 5 p.m. Thursday. Rev. DeWitt being sick Rev. J. H. Cunningham, of Pilot Point, conducted the services at the C. P. church at 4 p.m. The church was appropriately decorated, some good vocal music was rendered and Rev. Cunningham made a feeling, but hopeful talk. | Vineyard City, Jack Co., Tex., Sept. 11th, 1884. Our town was thrown into considerable excitement on the evening of the 9th. Mr. John Read shot and killed Bud Hendrix. Hendrix had some slight talk about a young lady, who was boarding here from Wise county, which caused a little row some two weeks ago. Some one wrote Mr. Hendrix a note to leave Jack county, which made Hendrix mad, and on the 9th Hendrix went to Mr. Read's and asked Mr. Read if he knew anything about the note. Read said he did not. Hendrix said some of the citizens had threatened to run him off, but he would make it d_d hot for them, and drew his pistol. Read got up and went and got his shot gun and come to the door. Hendrix backed off from the door with his pistol presented. Read came to the door the second time when Hendrix fired but missed him, then Read fired and killed Hendrix. Four shots took effect, one in the right arm, two in the right side and one in the forehead just above the right eye killing him instantly. Read had a preliminary trial yesterday and was placed under a bond of $2?00. We hop it will stop here. Wishing the MESSENGER success, we remain, etc. W. D. | TONY IS DEAD. One of Denton's Oldest Landmarks Passes Away a Victim of Old Age and La Grippe - Was 75 Years Old. "Tony" is dead. One of the most unique characters that ever resided in the town of Denton passed away Monday night at the home of George Miles in this city. Since the time whereof a memory of man remains not in the contrary. "Tony" had walked the streets of Denton existing on pension received from the government for service in the war of Mexico and in the federal army during the civil war. He was well known to every man, woman, and child in Denton up to a year or so ago, when he gave up his life of wandering around the town and became a recluse spending his last days with Mr. Miles, to whom he ? ? Uncle John Ewan, who had contributed to his support up to the time of his own death a few months ago. There are many interesting stories connected with the life of 'Tony,' who had lived a little more than man's allotted three score years and ten. He was always of a conservative turn of ? And seldom spoke of his past life, never than to the happenings of the ? of Denton. One of stories? which has been vouched for by a number of citizens is to the affect that ? fifteen? years ago Tony walked all the way to Little Rock, Ark, and ? on account of a joke perpetrated him by Denton parties. He bitterly resented the joker, but on returning home persued the even ? of his, ? for the balance of life, attending strictly to his own affairs. Peace ?? -Denton County News, 03-24-1904, p.1, c.1. TONEY'S MONEY. He Left About Five Hundred Dollars in the Bank Which He Had Agreed to Leave to George Miles. The property of Antone Henn, better known in Denton as "Tony," amounted to about $500, which sum, with the exemption of the expense of his burial and the court fees in settling up the estate will go to George Miles, who cared for him during the last year of his life. Judge S. M. Bvradley, who has had the matter in hand for adjustments states that there will probably not be over $350? Left after all indebtedness is settled, which amount is all that Mr. Miles will receive for having cared for Tony. It was generally believed that Tony left a great deal of money, and the above are the actual facts. -Denton County News, March 31, 1904, p.1, c.1. | | | | | |

| Decatur, Feb. 12. -About 8:30 o'clock last night Sam Rockwall, a stone mason by trade, acting as deputy marshal, shot Joe Highland, a cook, three times, killing him instantly. The facts as elicited at the coroner's investigation show that Rockwall had been drinking during the day that day. About 8 o'clock he called at Highland's residence to see a Mrs. Weisman, who was there. Rockwall and Highland had some words when Rockwall drew two six-shooters and wanted Highland to take one and fight him, which he refused to do, but ordered Rockwall to leave the house. As he did not go, Highland went to one of the neighbors, and after telling them about his trouble, asked ...when Rockwall drew two six-shooters and wanted Highland to take one and fight him, which he refused to do, but ordered Rockwall to leave the house. As he did not go, Highland went to one of the neighbors, and after telling them about his trouble asked for a gun. They had no firearms, and advised him to go and report the matter to the sheriff, and have Rockwall arrested. Highland started for town, going by his house, when opposite, he called to his wife asking what his (Rockwall's) name was. Mrs. Highland came out and told him and also said he had just left. Highland started for town, saying he would report him to the sheriff. About five minutes afterwards, three shots were heard. Rockwall went to jail and gave himself up, saying he had killed a man in self defense and showed some slight cuts on his outside coat. Highland's body was found about 150 yards from his house, with two bullet holes in his breast, one in the back of his head, with a small Barlow knife in his hand which had the appearance of having been put there by Rockwall. This idea was strengthened by finding Highland's knife in his pocket unopened. Highland was about seventy years old and leaves a wife and two children. Rockwall has a family. His wife gave birth to a child yesterday. -Alvord Messenger, Feb. 15, 1884, p. 3, c.3. | | | | | |

New developments have served to convince the people that it was the work of an incendiary, and it is believed by some that Col. Hitchcock was murdered before being burned in the building, but this belief seems to have very little foundation. Marshal W.S. Fry, who has been very active and persevering in making up the case, arrested three men on the charge of arson and murder last night. J. T. Gideumb, R. R. Fain and S. W. Keating, the parties are all brothers-in-law. Fain is the proprietor of the hotel, Keating the former proprietor and Gideumb, who boarded at the house, was carrying on an implement business in one of the rooms below. Fain and Gideumb have both made statements since their arrest which, taken together, are said to implicate all three of the parties. The examining trial has progressed rather slowly to-day, nothing being done except to take the voluntary statement of Gideumb, which is withheld from publication until the trial is over. The investigation will be resumed to-morrow and will be continued till the matter is sifted of every material fact. | | | | | |

| The excitement runs high, and strong talk of lynching has been freely indulged in on the streets. Excited crowds could be seen all day gathered in knots about the square discussing the probable motive, etc., of Col. Hitchcock's death, and it is believed that should it become known that he was first murdered the guilty parties would certainly be visited with speedy justice at the hands of his numerous friends. All seems to be quiet to-night. The parties charged are well guarded in the jail. Dr. Rowell of Louisville, a relative of the deceased, arrived here this morning and other relatives are expected soon. The funeral and memorial service will take place at the Baptist Church at 11 o'clock next Sunday. -Dallas Morning News, Aug. 27, 1887. | | | | | |
| BURNED TO DEATH IN A HOTEL. DENTON, Texas, Aug. 26 - Fire was discovered yesterday in the kitchen of the James Hotel, a two-story brick structure. The proprietor, seeing the flames were beyond control, had the guests aroused. Col. A. J. Hitchcock, a Texas veteran, was awakened and started from his room, but lost his way and ran into the flames. After a long search his charred body was found in the ruins to-night. He was one of the survivors of the Fannin massacre at Goliad in March, 1837. He was 73 years of age, a native of Georgia, and leaves a large estate. The total loss by fire was $10,000, partly covered by insurance. -New York Times, Aug. 27, 1887, p.3 | | | | | |
| HITTSO, Mr. | Pilot Point | | | in 1869 | |
| The Gainesville Vedette of the 10th gives some particulars of an affair already mentioned in the News. >Last Tuesday, at Pilot Point, a man by the name of Hittson was shot dead on the public square by a boy named W. C. Hudson. Whisky, we are informed was at the bottom of it all. Twelve months ago Hudson was a very promising youth, and everybody thought that he would make a man of himself, but how sad the change! He was a member of the Pilot Point Lodge of Good Templars, but withdrew from the lodge and commenced drinking, and up to the time of his killing Hittson, who was a man old enough for his father, was an annoyance and peace disturber to the place. Such is always the end of the desperado and outlaw. -Galveston Tri-Weedly News, July 23, 1869, p.1. | | | | | |

| HOLLY, A. D. | Sunset | | | July 31, 1884 | |
| Sunset, Aug. 1. - A fatal shooting affray occurred here last night about 10 o'clock, by which A. D. Holly came to his death by two pistol shots fired by the hands of T. H. Lee. Mr. Holly was sitting in front of his saloon in company with Mr. V. T. Burris when Lee rode up and fired two shots without speaking a word, and then rode off a short distance and fired again and made his escape. He was pursued for a short distance but without success. The supposition is that he has escaped to the Nation. -Alvord Messenger, Aug. 8, 1884, p.1, c.2. | | | | | |
| The murder of A. D. Holly at Sunset on the night of July 31st was a deplorable occurrence, which is directly attributable to drinking ardent spirits and quarrelling. Both the murdered man and his murderer were known as desperate characters who were often arraigned in our courts for violations of the civil law. Between Tom Lee, the murderer, and his victim there had long existed a feeling of bitterness brought about by previous rows and difficulties. The law will scarcely find any justification for this murder, but public sentiment will not become indignant as it would had a quiet harmless citizen been ruthlessly shot down. -Alvord Messenger, Aug. 8, 1884, p.4, c.3. | | | | | |

| AN ACCIDENTAL KILLING. Denton, Tex., Aug. 19. - News reached here this evening of the accidental killing, near Lewisville yesterday evening, of Lacy Johnson, a well-known young man of that place. He in company with a younger brother and another boy, while out hunting about two and one-half miles east of that place, all carrying loaded shotguns, attempted to get into a passing wagon. The elder Johnson's gun, the barrel of which was close to his head, caught in some way and went off, the discharge tearing his head to pieces and scattering his blood and brains over the other occupants of the vehicle. His young wife, whom he had married but a short time before, fainted when the news of her husband's tragic death was broken to her, and is reported to be in a precarious condition. -Dallas Morning News, Aug. 20, 1897, p.5. | | | | | |

| A SUDDEN DEATH. "Uncle" Nathan Johnson Found Dead in the Road Monday Afternoon. -Mr. Nathan Johnson, an old and highly respected citizen, who lived a few miles east of town, was found dead in the road Monday afternoon. Mr. Johnson was apparantly in the best of health, he having eaten a hearty dinner, after which he got in his buggy and started to visit his daughter, Mrs. W. R. Laney, at Mingo, a distance of some four miles from his home, but he was never to reach there for he was found lying in the road about two miles from his home at 8 o'clock by a Mrs. Thomas, and from indications he had been dead about an hour. It is generally thought that while standing in his buggy to light his pipe, which was a custom with him, his horse started causing him to lose his balance and fall from the buggy, striking the ground on his head and face as indicated by the bruises found on him. He was buried with Masonic honors in the Odd Fellows cemetery at this place Tuesday afternoon, on the day he would have been 79 years old. The deceased leaves a wife, several children and a host of friends to mourn his sad death. The News extends sympathy and condolence to the bereaved family. -Denton County News, June 4, 1903, p.1, c.7. | | | | | |

| Charley Jones, English Charley, as he was frequently called, died very suddenly on Wednesday night of this week. For 10 years we have known the deceased to be an honest, trustworthy person, but a desire to make a living led him into the temptations of a strong drink which at last overcame him. This reminds us that we should spread the pall of forgetfulness over the weakness of the dead and work more earnestly for the living. -Wise County Messenger, March 28, 1885, p.7, c.2. | | | | | |

| STARTLING NEWS. Prominent Men Arrested for Bold Offences. Special to Dallas Herald. Wichita Falls, March 13. -Yesterday the rangers arrested 19 persons in Vernon, Wilbarger county, and four at Wichita Falls, accused of the assassination of Ray Morrison and Hettis Jones, killed at Vernon during the last few months. The parties arrested have been considered among the best men in Wilbarger county. Among the number arrested are B. Wilson Edgell, editor and proprietor of the Vernon Guard; G. E. Douglass, sheriff of Wilbarger county; John Davidson, deputy sheriff; A. T. Boger, ex-sheriff; James Wilson, a cattle man; Thomas Gibson, foreman of the W. B. Worsham ranch, and a host of others. They are now under guard at Vernon. The rangers claim that they have positive evidence against all of the parties as having been implicated in the killings. They claim that the parties arrested formed an organization to kill the parties who have been killed, and several others. They claim that they have in their possession the list and the oath of the members of the organization, and they had what they termed a death list containing the name of the parties who had been assassinated, they marked the word "killed." It seems that Sergeant Grimes and Capt. Schmitt, of the ranger force, have been working on the cases some time. They sent detectives there and had them learn about the organization and take the oath, and by that means they claim to have all the evidence in their possession. Nothing has ever created such an excitement in this section. -Wise County Messenger, March 28, 1885, p.2, c.3. | | | | | |

DENTON, Jan. 22 - The remains of Mr. Dwara Kowsky, who died here yesterday, were interred to-day in the I.O.O. F. cemetery, Mr. Kowsky was born in Warsaw, Poland, Jan.24, 1833. His father, who was a Polish county and a prominent General in the army, was captured by the Russians and banished to Siberia, and his vaste estates confiscated by the Russian government and he never permitted to return to Poland. So untiring were they in the persecution of him and his that the mother smuggled her son Dwara out of the country at a very tender age, and a temporary asylum was foud for him at Berlin, remaining herself and daughter in Warsaw. Bereft of both father and son, the mother and daughter did not survive long, but ere her death she sent her son to New York City, where he was educated befitting the rank in which he was born, and in 1849, boy though he was, he joined the gold hunters of California , where he amassed in time large fortune by mining and a gained a reputation as one of the most reliable mining experts on the coast. The hardships of the life, however, brought on asthma, and accompanied by his physician and nurse, he traveled over this countryand crossed the ocean five times seeking relief. Finally he improved in health so as it permit to enter business, and he located in Philadelphia, Pa., where in a business point of view he was successful, but having a relapse of his asthmatic troubles he came to Denton in 1877, where he married, in 1879, Mrs. Nannie E. Welch, relict of the late Col. Otis G. Welch . He has resided here since, saving on an occasional trip to Mexico, where, in conjunction with his son-in-law, Judge William J. Austin, he had large mining interests, and indeed it was while looking after these interests that he was taken ill with rheumatism in El Paso and arrived at home eight or ten days ago. What was thought at first only to be a slight illness has carried off a kind and affectionate husband - an honest, energetic business man. | It is with feelings of deep regret we announce the death of Francis W. At the time of his death he was engaged in merchandising in the village of Bridgeport, and we understand was by his upright business succeeding in building a prosperous trade. But the greatest meed of respect given him is, he lived and died a Christian. His wife is the eldest daughter of James Mann, who died less than two years ago, and the sister of Sheriff Mann. | LANE, Bob | Bonham | | | Sept. of 1884 | |
| Bob Lane, of Bonham, while resisting arrest, was shot and mortally wounded by Marshal Thornton and Sheriff Blair. Lane was in the city drunk, and about 3 o'clock passed along the street occasionally yelling. He immediately mounted his horse and rode out on the square, where he drew a large army pistol and fired into the air and thence rode down the west side of the square, firing the second shot and yelling. The officers were on the alert. Marshal Thornton procured a shot-gun, and together with Sheriff Blair, demanded of Lane to stop, whereupon Lane turned upon him and fired, Thornton returned the fire. About this time Blair told him to hold up. Lane turned on him, but fired, Thornton returned the fire. About this time Blair told him to hold up. Lane turned on him, but fired at Thornton the second shot, and Lane fell from his horse mortally wounded, about thirty bullets having struck him. His left arm was shot to pieces. Some ten or twelve bullets passed through his body from the oeft to the right side. The streets were crowded at that time and it is a great wonder some one else was not shot. The windows in Dabney's hardware store were broken. Lane was a desperate man. He lost a leg in the Confederate army. Whisky has proved his ruin. He remarked before the shooting that he wanted some one to kill him. He has lived in the county from boyhood and at one time stood high. -Alvord Messenger, Sept. 26, 2008, p.3, c.4. | | | | | |

| AT LEWISVILLE. LEE LEWIS KILLED. Lewisville, Sept. 29. -Lee Lewis was shot and instantly killed here to-day at 1 o'clock p.m. by J. M. Lauderdale. Lauderdale, Lee Lampkin, W. A. Runnels and Will Woodrum had repaired to a branch thicket 450 yards southeast of town for a game of cards, and while there Lee Lewis and Carter Smoot came upon the scene. When Lewis came up Lauderdale remarked to him: "I want you to pay me what you owe me." Lewis disputed Lauderdale's account; the lie and other foul epithets followed, when Lewis receded a few paces, drawing his revolver, which he snapped twice. By this time Lauderdale was in a shooting position and fired four shots in quick succession, one of which took effect in Lewis' left side, four inches to the left of the left nipple. Lewis swaggered back a few steps and called to Lee Lampkins, saying: "Lee, I am done with this world," saying which he fell dead. Both men had been drinking and were slightly under the influence of local option whisky at the time of the shooting. Lewis was a stranger here, formerly from Missouri. He came from Kaufman County to Lewisville three weeks ago. Lauderdale has lived here from his infancy. He surrendered to the civil authorities, who fixed his bail at $750. The coroner's jury found a verdict in accordance with the above facts. -Dallas Morning News, Sept. 30, 1886, p.1. | | | | | |

| OBITUARY. Mrs. Helen Madden, wife of D. N. Madden, was born in Lawrence county, S. C., on the 9th day of April, 1847. She was married to D. N. Madden on the 9th day of Oct., 1866, and departed this life by accident Sept. 1st., 1884. When quite young she professed religion and joined the church then known as the "New School Presbyterian Church." She moved with her husband to Crafton, Wise county, Texas, some years ago, and finding no church of her own joined the Cumberland Presbyterian church, in which she continued faithful until death called her from labor to her reward. She leaves a husband and five children to mourn because she is not, and many, many friends are sad and feel that they have sustained a great loss. How true the saying: "Life is uncertain and death is sure." We are admonished that we should ever be ready, "For in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh." | DEATH OF AN OLD NEGRESS. Came to Denton County When Texas Was an Independent Republic. SPECIAL TO THE NEWS. Denton, Tex., May 17. -Aunt Fannie Mayes, probably the oldest woman in Denton County, succumbed to illness at her home in this city during the present week. Neither she nor any one else knew how old she was exactly, and her age at the time of her death can be computed only approximately. She was brought to Denton County by her master in 1841, fifty-nine years ago, when Texas was a republic unto itself. At that time she was a fully grown negress, the mother of several children. Thirty years ago-this is one clew to her age-her third daughter died, being the mother at the time of several almost grown children. Her youngest child, a negro man, lives here now and is about 40 years old, and from these facts it is estimated that she was nearly if not quite, 103 years old when she died. Aunt Fannie distinctly remembered the falling of the stars in 1836, being at the time a middle-aged woman. The Dallas Morning News, May 18, 1900, p.7. | | | | | |

| MCCARTY, Jim | near Chico | | | Sept. 11, 1884 | |
| A horrible accident occurred at Metcalf & Hollister's steam gin, 4 miles southeast of Chico, on Thursday, Sept. 11th. Jim McCarty, the engineer and Mr. Hollister were standing near the front of the boiler, and had started the engine or were just in the act of starting it when the boiler and furnace off, projecting a sliver of iron into McCarty's body, causing death in two hours, and ejecting such a volume of scalding water and steam over Mr. Hollister that his life is in danger. It was a 12-horse power engine with the steam chest and engine attached to the boiler, and so powerful was the explosion that the boiler and engine was lifted from its place and set back near 50 feet, displacing part of the supports from under the gin room and causing the gin stand and Mr. Metcalf, who was standing by the stand, to fall through the floor on the ground within a few feet of where the rent boiler rested, but luckily he was not hurt. The machinery is an irreparable wreck and the building badly damaged. On the next day the mangled remains of James McCarty was buried in the cemetery on Booth's Prairie. -Alvord Messenger, Sept. 19, 1884, p.7, c.2. | | | | | |

| Burned to a Crisp. Denton, Tex., Jan. 29. -The widow of Alf McConnell, colored, suffered a miserable death at the county poor farm, of which she was an inmate, yesterday, her body being in the fire by which the house in which she lived was consumed. >The woman is said to have been slightly deranged for a number of years, but, as her aberration was of an innocent kind and considered incurable, she was sent out to the poor farm to spend the remainder of her days, a small house separated from the other buildings on the place being given her for her exclusive use. >About 11 o'clock yesterday morning flames were discovered coming from the house, and, fanned by the stiff norther blowing, the fire had enveloped the entire structure before the men on the place could get to the scene. Sleet and snow were falling also, which made the work doubly hard, and the house was almost entirely consumed before the fire was got under sufficient control for any of the men to venture in. The negress was found charred and burned all over and life was extinct when the body was taken out into the open air. >The cause of the fire is not known, unless it caught from the stove inside. The pecuniary loss is small. -The Dallas Morning News, Jan. 30, 1900, p.8. | | | | | |

| Wichita Falls, March 12. -A fearful accident occurred about 6 o'clock last evening, 9 miles west of here, in a cut of the extension of the Fort Worth & Denver railway, that caused the instant death of Dan Downey, Pat Swan and Tom McCoy. They were blasting rock in the cut and squibbed the hole, and, after waiting the usual time, began charging the blast. After they had used nearly three kegs of powder, Downey ordered the fourth, but as McMurray started with it, Downey called to him not to bring it, as they had enough, and instantly the explosion took place. Swan and McCoy were blown 250 feet in opposite directions, and Downey 200 feet. The heads of McCoy and Swan were blown off, and all were, very much disfigured. -Wise County Messenger, March 21, 1885, p.1, c.2. | | | | | |

An altercation arose whilst attending a country dance, between a man styled Dock Pills and his brother-in-law, named McGee, and was brought to a close by McGee, who suddenly grasped a knife and stabbed Pills in the throat inflicting a wound from which Pills soon afterward expired. | A RESPECTED CITIZEN GONE. Last Thursday afternoon Mr. Hugh McKenzie died at his home in this city. Mr. McKenzie had been a citizen of Denton county since 1856, nearly 40 years, and had twice filled the responsible office of county treasurer to the satisfaction of his constituents. He spent the greater part of his time as a resident in Denton county near Lewisville, moving to Denton in 1866 where he has since lived. Mrs. McKenzie and five children survive deceased. The remains were interred in the Odd Fellows cemetery Friday afternoon. The funeral sevices were conducted by Rev. J. B. Cole at the grave by the Odd Fellows lodge of which the deceased was a member at his native home in Mississippi before he came to Texas and he assisted in organizing the first lodge of that order in this county in 1857. Sul Ross camp, the local Confederate organization, also marched in a body to the grave and paid its last repsects to an honored member. "Uncle" Hugh McKenzie, as he was familiarly known, was a loyal citizen, a true friend and an affectionate husband and father and demise is universally regretted by all his qcquaintances. - Denton County News, Nov. 14, 1895, p.4, c.2. | | | | | |
| RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT. Sul Ross Camp, No. 129, of Denton, at a called meeting passed the following resolutions of respect on their deceased member, Mr. Hugh McKenzie: | | | | | |
| WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to call our beloved comrade, Hugh McKenzie, from our midst to pass over the river to rest under the shade of the trees in the bivouac of the dead; and in token of respect for our deceased comrade we wish to commend his virtues to the living by giving a short sketch of his life and acts while living. | | | | | |
| Our deceased comrade, Hugh McKenzie, lived to be 63 years old; was born in North Carolina, raised in Carrollton, Carroll county, Mississippi; came to Texas in 1856; enlisted in the Confederate army in December, 1861; captured at Arkansas Post and carried to Camp Douglass, Illinois; he was then exchanged at City Point, Va.; then transferred to the army of Tennessee; elected orderly sergeant; participated all through the Tennessee campaign; prompted to Sergeant-Major at dalton Ga.; slightly wounded at the battle of Chicamauga, in the Missionary Ridge battle and in all the engagements that his command was in the Georgia campagin; under Johnston to Atlanta, Ga., at which place he was seriously wounded on the 21st day of July, 1864, which wound forever disabled him as a soldier. Brave and courageous, always at his post of duty, and always ready to obey orders without a murmur. As a citizen, his virtues appeared equally as prominent. He was twice elected county treasurer of the county. He was an efficient, painstaking officer, scrupulously honest, cheerful and accomodating. As a neighbor his chief object was to better his fellow man, and if any difficulty arose he always appeared as peace-maker. In our camp he was always in the front rank of duty. May we all try to imitate his virtues.... -Denton County News, Nov. 14, 1895, p.4, c. 3. | | | | | |

| A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT. MISS MAMIE MINNERLY WAS KILLED AND MRS. S. A. LOBDELL SUSTAINED SERIOUS INJURIES. A fatal accident occurred last Friday afternoon at 1:50 p.m. as Mrs. S. A. Lobdell and her niece, Miss Mamie Minnerly, were driving along a lane about a mile and a half north of Drop, where they both lived. They were on their way to Denton, and when they came to where the road was washed out, and being on a down grade, too, they buggy ran against the horse, frightening the animal and causing it to run. Mrs. Lobdell, who was driving, being unable to stop the horse, which was now going at a high rate of speed, Miss Minnerly tried to get hold of the lines, but in her excitement caught only one line. pulling the animal into the wire fence on the roadside. The buggy wheel struck the post with such force that both ladies were thrown forward. The post broke and the left fore wheel ran throught the fence, between the two top wires and the bottom ones. Mrs. Lobdell was thrown over the fence, but her right foot being caught in the spokes of the revolving wheel, which dragged her and twisted her limb in such a manner as to crush the outer bone (fibula) just above the ankle, and to break the inner bone (tibia) in two places, besides splitting it. Miss Minnerly was thrown with her right side and arm across the two top wires, which had become twisted together, and dragged to the next post where the buggy caught and stopped, the crossbar of the shafts breaking and liberating the horse, which ran a short distance and stopped. Miss Minnerly, besides being dragged eighteen or twenty feet on the barbed wires, which cut and tore her body terribly and nearly severing her right arm, was caught between the wheel and the post, injuring her internally. Although medical aid was quickly at hand, but little could be done, and the young lady, after a few minutes' consciouness, lived only about twenty minutes. | | | | | |

| MORRISON, Ray | Vernon | | | 1884/1885 | |
| STARTLING NEWS. Prominent Men Arrested for Bold Offences. Special to Dallas Herald. Wichita Falls, March 13. -Yesterday the rangers arrested 19 persons in Vernon, Wilbarger county, and four at Wichita Falls, accused of the assassination of Ray Morrison and Hettis Jones, killed at Vernon during the last few months. The parties arrested have been considered among the best men in Wilbarger county. Among the number arrested are B. Wilson Edgell, editor and proprietor of the Vernon Guard; G. E. Douglass, sheriff of Wilbarger county; John Davidson, deputy sheriff; A. T. Boger, ex-sheriff; James Wilson, a cattle man; Thomas Gibson, foreman of the W. B. Worsham ranch, and a host of others. They are now under guard at Vernon. The rangers claim that they have positive evidence against all of the parties as having been implicated in the killings. They claim that the parties arrested formed an organization to kill the parties who have been killed, and several others. They claim that they have in their possession the list and the oath of the members of the organization, and they had what they termed a death list containing the name of the parties who had been assassinated, they marked the word "killed." It seems that Sergeant Grimes and Capt. Schmitt, of the ranger force, have been working on the cases some time. They sent detectives there and had them learn about the organization and take the oath, and by that means they claim to have all the evidence in their possession. Nothing has ever created such an excitement in this section. -Wise County Messenger, March 28, 1885, p.2, c.3. | | | | | |

| A correspondent from the Monitor, writing from Decatur, gives an account of a sad accident on the 30th ult.: >Miss Sue Oats, in the prime and gaiety of youth, enjoying the pleasures of life to hope's fullest fruition, on her return from a nuptial feast, fell from her horse and was killed almost instantly. The party had stopped at the house of a neighbor, and when invited to remain until the next day she replied, "I am going home this evening." She started, in company with a male friend, full of mirth and joy. Riding at a rapid gait, and making a sudden turn in the road, her saddle turned to the right, throwing her on top of a stump. She survived probably half an hour, and did "go home" - not that home to which she had alluded, but to that where none "are given in marriage," and where accidents do not happen. - The Galveston Tri-Weekly News, July 23, 1869, p.1. | | | | | |

Johnson opened by reading the sixty-second chapter of Isaiah and prayer, followed by a song, the "Watchman," led by Miss Lou Covent with Miss Lula Collier at the organ. The president of the society, Miss Minnie Baird, presented resolutions following, with an address, which was a fitting tribute to their late secretary, after which the Rev. A. J. One of the most terrible accidents that has ever been written in the annals of Denton county brought death Wednesday night to the day old child of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pearson, who live about four and a half miles east of the city. According to reports received here, next morning the little one smothered to death in bed that night. | YOUNG MAN DROWNED. Walter Piner Meets With a Sad Fate While Fishing in Milam Creek. -The people of Denton were never more shocked than on last Thursday afternoon when it was reported that Walter Piner was drowned in Milam creek, five miles north of town. The news was brought in by Lou Grafton. Immediately, a large crowd left for the scene, one among the first being a brother of the deceased, Dr. Frank Piner. On arriving at the creek they found several of the neighboring farmers, who had been informed of the drowning by mr. Grafton before leaving for town, at work dragging the creek, but with no result. These were joined by the party from Denton, several going into the water. The body was soon found by Tom Clark in about eight or nine feet of water and only a few feet from where Walter is supposed to have fallen in. | | | | | |
| As soon as possible, the body was conveyed to the family residence, friends going ahead to break the terrible news to the unsuspecting mother and family. Judge Piner was absent on a business trip and was informed at Dallas, by a telegram, of his loss. He did not reach home until 11 p.m. | | | | | |
| The facts, as best we can gather are as follows: On Wednesday afternoon Walter Piner and Lou Grafton went out to Milam creek for a fishing trip remaining over the night. They had good sport and a very enjoyable time but about 12 o'clock they separated to look at their set books which was the last ever seen of Walter alive. It was not very long until Grafton went to search for his companion but could see or hear nothing of him, but found his hat floating on the water. He gave the alarm | | | | | |
| While the actual particulars of his drowning will never be known, an examination of the banks where his body was found leads to the conclusion that in the act of going down a steep bank to where some hooks were set he must have tripped on a root, fell headlong into the water and lost consciousness. He was a fine swimmer and his drowning so close to the bank is an evidence that he must have been stunned by the fall. | | | | | |
| Walter Piner, youngest son of Judge and Mrs. F. E. Piner, was born in Denton, August 18, 1873, and was nearly 23 years old at the time of his death. He was raised to manhood among our people and it can be truly said that no young man in the town was more universally popular. He had an exceptionally bright and active mind, impulsive and warm hearted; polite to every one. He was highly accomplished and educated, having graduated in the Denton High School and received the A. B., degree from the North Texas Normal College. He, after finishing his course, had been a constant and retentive reader in most branches of science and literature. But the best thing we can say of him is that he was a true Christian. He was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, part of the time serving in the ministry, but lately had turned his attention to law, studying under his father, with every prospect of splendid success in his chosen profession. | | | | | |
| The interment took place Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the Odd Fellow's cemetery, services conducted at the grave by Rev. J. F. Pierce who made some very touching and consoling remarks. The funeral procession was one of the largest ever seen in Denton. | | | | | |
| The NEWS joins in sincere sympathy with the bereaved family but they mourn not as those without hope. | QUINN, Michael | Big Springs | | | Dec 20, 1886 | |
| Deadly Affray at Big Springs. BIG SPRINGS. December 20. -About 12:30 this morning another horrible killing took place here. William H. Lessing, a prominent lawyer of San Angelo, who has been attending court here, shot and killed Michael Quinn, a bartender at one of the saloons. The particulars, as learned to-day, are: The parties had some trouble, caused by gambling, which culminated in Lessing being driven out of doors by Quinn at the point of a weapon. Lessing then went to a livery stable, procured his shotgun and returned to the saloon. As he stepped inside the door, Quinn seeing the gun, drew a 45-caliber revolver and fired, striking Lessing in the hip and making an ugly wound. Lessing then fired and, owing to the short distance between himself and Quinn, about twenty feet, the shot took effect with a terrible result, the whole charge entering just about the right eye and literally tearing away the top of his head. The body of Quinn, which presented a sickening sight, was removed to the undertaker's where it now lies awaiting burial. His home was formerly in Abilene, Texas. Lessing was assisted to his room at the hotel, and is now resting easy, being guarded by a deputy sheriff. This makes the third killing which has occurred in Big Springs during the past eight months. -Wise County Messenger, January 2, 1886, p.3, c.1 | | | | | |

| SHE KILLED HER TRADUCER. A Texas Woman's Revenge for Alleged Slanderous Boasts. >Mrs. G. G. Lyles, wife of a saloon owner of Denton, Texas, a handsome blonde but 22 years of age, created a sensation by shooting ex-Deputy Sheriff W. B. Roberts, killing him instantly. About 3 o'clock the afternoon of June 22nd, Mrs. Lyles deliberately walked up to Ball & Poe's livery stable on the public square, where Roberts was chatting with the town idlers gathered there, and put two balls in his neck and one in his head. Two more shots were fired at him but without effect. They were not needed, as Roberts was already dying. Mrs. Lyles, having got her man coolly turned away and walked off. >Her demeanor was that of a person who had decided to do a thing and having done it was satisfied, but her bloody work was not a mad freak nor the result of sudden anger. She had prepared a statement in writing to the effect that Roberts had lied in boasting of too much intimacy with her, and armed with this and a freshly loaded pistol she sought Roberts the first opportunity she had. She gave him warning by twice requesting him to sign the Instrument in writing. She was calm and firm and remarked that he had better do what was safe for him and sign the paper. He refused with the result stated. >The fact that Roberts has a young wife and two children and that Mrs. Lyles has two children, throws more startling interest around the shooting. Mrs. Lyles refuses to talk except to say that the traducer of her good name had timely warning to make reparation. -National Police Gazette; July 10, 1886. | | | | | |

| MYSTERIOUS MURDER. Body of Robert Samples Found in the Woods. Last Friday afternoon, Newt Hurst discovered the partially decomposed body of a man in the woods about six miles northeast of Roanoke and two and a half miles west of the Double Oak school house. The body proved to be that of Robert Samples who lived in the Double Oak community, about two miles from the place where it was found. A gun shot wound and appearances about the locality indicated that the man had been killed. An inquest by Esquire Selby, of Roanoke, returned a verdict that deceased had been killed by unkown parties. A man by the name of Davis was placed in jail here Sunday charged with the killing. Davis was sub-renting from Samples some land and the last seen of Samples he was in charge of Davis and other parties, who had arrested him for the alleged stealing of some harness. They claim that he escaped in the night. -Denton County News, June 10, 1897, p.4, c.2. | | | | | |
| A Most Grewsome Mystery. A Dead Man Found and the Inquest Verdict Was That He Had Been Murdered. Denton, Denton Col, Tex., June 5.-What on its face appears to be a mysterious and diabolical murder, has come to light near Roanoke, about eighteen miles south of here, and was reported here to-day. In looking for some horses yesterday afternoon Newt Hurst, a farmer, found in a secluded spot the body of a man, which was afterwards identified as that of Robert Samples, a well digger. The body had evidently lain there for some time, as the head was almost bare and other parts of the body had been torn away and eaten by buzzards, which were still flying overhead about. The last seen of Samples was May 27. When found the body was lying under a tree, on the limbs of which, directly overhead, were marks as if a rope had been drawn roughly across them. Nearby were wagon or buggy tracks, from the stopping place of which a heavy body had been dragged, and about thirty or forty yards still further away was found a pool of blood that had been covered up with dirt. In the right breast was a large hole and the entire skull was almost entirely denuded of flesh by decomposition and the buzzards. The clothes were nearly torn off the body and the hat lay nearby. 'Squire Selby at Roanoke held an inquest, the verdict being that deceased had been killed by parties to him unknown. The authorities here have been notified and are working on the matter to-day. The people in the community in which the deed was done are much worked up over the matter. - Dallas Morning News, June 6, 1897, p.1 | | | | | |
| DEAD MAN FOUND. On Friday eve a dead man was found by Newton Hurst in the woods two and a half miles west of Double Oaks in this county. The body was partially decomposed, and was id'd as that of Robert Samples, of that place. Evidence showed that the man had been murdered, and the verdict of the coroner's inquest was to that effect. A man named Davis is in jail charged with the murder. The last seen of Samples, Davis had him under arrest, for the alleged theft of a bridle. Davis says the man escaped while he slept. -Denton Monitor, June 12, 1897, p.8, c.3. | | | | | |

| SANFORD, Mrs. C. E. | | | | Nov 7, 1885 | |
| Mrs. Sanford the wife of C. E. Sanford, who lives in Clay county 15 miles south of Henrietta was shot and killed by her son, a small boy on last Saturday. After the youthful murderer had shot his mother from where he lay concealed in the brush near the house he secreted the gun and hid the lifeless body under a heap of brush. It was his intention to shoot his father also, who was away from home at the time, as soon as he came back and then run off to an uncle in Wisconsin and report his parents missing. He was 14 years old. As soon as he was found his looks betrayed him and he confessed all. This awful crime is attributed to vicious raising of the lad. Parents too often do not realize the dangerous disposition they are instilling into the minds of their children when they threaten to whip them to death, knock them down, cut their heads off, skin them alive and all such foolish and hideous threats, and permit them to fight, frequently with clubs and stones. -Wise County Messenger, November 14, 1885, p.6, c.1 | | | | | |

In 1873 he moved to Wise county and labored extensively in Wise and Jack counties and others on the frontier until his health failed; he then moved to Tarrant county, where Mrs. Sizemore engaged in teaching and he still did what he could in missionary work. Finally under failure of health, he moved into Fort Worth for treatment by the physicians, and remained until his death a member of the First Baptist church esteemed and loved by his pastor and many friends. Brother Sizemore's death was a remarkably bright and triumphant one. He had sacrificed health and wealth to the cause but has now gone where his treasures are laid up safely for him and where he will be a rich man forevermore, and enjoy the presence and glory of the Great King. He leaves a widow to mourn his loss and a nephew, who will soon take his place in the minstry. Pastor in Texas. -Wise County Messenger, November 14, 1885, p.7, c.2 | | | | | |

| Denton, Feb. 26. - A report reached here this morning of the sudden death of Dr. F. W. Smith, of Greenwood, Wise county, and brother of E. C. Smith, an attorney of this place. Dr. Smith in company with a constable and others of Greenwood, started in pursuit of some horse thieves, and arriving at their den told them to consider themselves under arrest. Immediately upon hearing this the thieves uttered dreadful curses, drew their pistols and began firing, killing two of the posse's horses and causing them to retreat, but before getting out of shooting distance, one John B. Wilson, an ex-convict, obtained a Winchester rifle and renewed the firing, resulting in the death of Dr. Smith. -Alvord Messenger, Feb. 28, 1884, p.3, c.3. | | | | | |

| A bloody tragedy occurred at about 1 o'clock on the morning of July 13th. At that hour two pistol shots rang out on the still air, followed by three more. A few straggling people out on the streets and several patrolmen hastened to the house whence the sounds came, and were shown by the thoroughly aroused and bewildered inmates, to a room in the third story. The door was locked on the inside, but yielded to the heavy pressure of several men, and the eye beheld under the brightly beaming gas, two dead bodies lying side by side, and two feet apart. In the privacy of their room, W. H. Beal, mailing clerk for Sanger Bros., and J. B. Strange, book-keeper for Mitchell & Scruggs, had engaged in a hot dispute, then a scuffle, destructive to tables, chairs, bed clothes and other articles in the room occupied by them, and then died each from a pistol shot in the region of the heart. Two pistols of 38-calibre lay by the bodies, showing that each man had a weapon. Beal lay naked, save his drawers, in a pool of blood, and Strange divested of coat and shoes, presented an equally ghastly sight. Both were promising young men under 30 years of age, holding responsible positions in business, and were devoted friends for four years, most of that time roommates. Both were Virginians. -Alvord Messenger, Aug. 8, 1884, p.3, c.4. | | | | | |

| TAYLOR, Virgil | Big Elm creek | Taylor | | June of 1899 | |
| DROWNED IN BIG ELM. Sudden Disappearance of Virgil Taylor Is Explained. Denton, Tex., June 20. -Last Saturday night Virgil Taylor, a young man, 20 years old, living with his brother-in-law, James Tidmore, on the other side of Big Elm creek, disappeared. He had been to Denton Saturday afternoon and after attending to whatever business he had, started home in company with one of two other young men from the neighborhood in which he lived. On this side of the creek the other boys separated from Taylor and he continued his way. | | | | | |
| That was the last seen of him until yesterday afternoon when a party that had organized to look for him found his dead body, bloated and swollen, in Big Elm creek, 300 yards below where he had intended to cross. The body was in a fearful state decomposition had set in and his features were blackened and swollen beyond all recognition. The clothes were soggy and mud-stained and the cuticle had begun to peel off his hands. | | | | | |
| The body was found entangled in a pile of drift at the water's edge. The upper part from the breasts upward was exposed; the lower part, held by a riding spur caught in the brush, was beneath the water. There is not supposed to have been any foul play or violence connected with the finding of the body. In fact, it is now recalled that before separating from his companions he was repeatedly warned of the high water-Big Elm at the time was half bank-full - and it was suggested that he go home by way of the McKinney road bridge, three miles below. He persisted in making the attempt, however, and yesterday at the Castleberry crossing the tracks of his horse where he had been forced into the raging flood were found. | | | | | |
| From this it is supposed that the beast, plunging into water twelve or fifteen feet deep, which was going like a millrace, was unable to cope with the swift current and gave up the current. On his failure to come home Taylor's friend's and relatives organized the searching party Sunday morning and found the body as above stated at about 6:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. | | | | | |
| The news of the find reached here at 2 o'clock this morning and, as it was at first reported that it was another case of murder, at 6:30 Sheriff Hawkins, Marshal Fry and the News representative left for the scene, eight or ten miles east of town. When they arrived the body was lying in the water covered with a sheet, but it was afterward taken out and put in a box, the coffin being too small. In the pockets were found a small sum of money and several other small articles. 'Squire Hopkins and others arrived later. The justice held an inquest over the body, returning a verdict of accidental drowning. | | | | | |

| A SAD SUICIDE. Will Thomason, a Prominent Young Farmer, Shot Himself in the Temple. Justin, Texas, May 23. -Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. Will Thomason committed suicide by shooting himself in the right temple with a 38-calibre, Harrington & Richardson pistol. He had come to Justin that evening and bought some cartridges; and on his return home he stopped at the residence of Lee Smith a few minutes, and in conversation with Miss Cora Smith, he told her he would kill himself and displayed his pistol. He was found in the road this morning about half way between Mr. Smith's and his home. An inquest being held and several witnesses examined, it was agreed that deceased came to his death by shooting himself. | | | | | |
| The news of young Thomason's sad death reached here Tuesday. The deceased was a well known citizen of the community in which he lived and was a member of a prominent family. No known cause has been assigned to account for his rash act, but he is said to have been despondent for several days and on Sunday last he remarked to his mother that he was tired of living. His body was found lying a a pasture one-fourth of a mile from the home of his mother, with whom he lived, by a a neighbor, John Steff, and the body was taken to his mother's home, where the inquest was held, the verdict being as given in the Justin dispatch above. The pistol with which death is supposed to have been produced was found lying four feet away from his body. Two empty shells in the cylinder were mute evidences as to whence death had come, although only one of the bullets has been found - the one in his brain. The death was a sad one and is a hard blowto his family. -Denton County Record, May 25, 1899, p.1, c.5. | | | | | |

| CAMPBELL ACQUITTED. A Celebrated Case in Collin County Ended Last Week--Not Guilty. The case of the State of Texas vs. T. J. Campbell has been on trial in the district court at McKinney this week. Campbell, who was a wealthy and prosperous merchant of Lebanon, a small town in the west part of Collin county, was charged jointly with his step-son, Sam Johnson, with the murder of Prof. Thweat of that place nearly four years ago. Young Johnson was acquitted at his first trial, but the jury in the campbell case could not agree. The second trial resulted in a light sentence for the defendant. A new trial was granted and the case came up for trial at the present term of court. The evidence adduced the fact that Campbell and thweat had previously had trouble, which eventually grew into a neighborhood fuss, the friends of each party taking sides. There was talk of many threats and counter-threats and on the night of the killing Prof. Thweat approached the Campbell store and fired into the open door. The fire was returned and Thweat was killed. The jury, after being out twenty hours, returned a verdict of not guilty. -Denton County News, January 28, 1904, p.7, c.4. | | | | | |

Underwood, formerly of Denton county, but resident during this year near this town was traveling westward in a buggy, and near Towns' Store, 9 miles west was overtaken by some ailment and fell out of his buggy. He either recovered and got in the buggy again, or was assisted in it, and supplied with a drink of brandy, by some acquaintance who met him at the time. >Parting, Underwood got but a little way, before he was seen to fall out again, and the buggy ran over him. He received assistance and was removed to a house, but soon after died. We have not learned what an examination of the case developed; but suppose he must have been suffering from sunstroke, or possibly disease of the heart. The Stansberry boy, who held the pistol when it was discharged was placed in jail on a charge of carrying a pistol or pistols, as it is claimed there are several bills of indictment against him. | Once more the Death Angel has visited our community and taken from us our friend and relative J. T. Williams. Though Mr. Williams had been sick for a number of years, having been under the care of a doctor almost continuously for three or four years, his death at this stage of his sickness was a surprise to us all. During the last three weeks his general condition had so improved that we had hoped for his recovery. | | | | | |
| The writer and others had visited him on the day of his death and he was cheerful and talkative. He read a great deal that day having read several chapters of the Bible. We were with him about two hours before death came and were greatly shocked when the news of his sudden death reached us. | | | | | |
| At early bedtime he said to his devoted wife: "I feel a little drowsy and if you will bathe my feet I believe I will go to bed a little early tonight. She bathed his feet and helped him to bed as she had often done before. Hardly had she gotten the cover fixed before she noticed a change had taken place and being alone she ran in her stocking feet to Mr. J. H. Goods who lives about one hundred yards away for help. He passed away before anyone could get there. | | | | | |

| KILLING OF JAMES WILLIAMS. HIS FUNERAL AND BURIAL IN DENTON. Denton was thrown into a fever of excitement, last Monday morning, by a private telegram, received by C. A. Williams, an old and leading dry goods merchant, of this city, conveying the sad news that James Williams, his son, was shot and killed at 9:25, Monday morning at Ardmore, I. T. No particulars were given, and all sorts of surmises were indulged as to the manner and cause of the killing. Will Williams, E. C. Smith, Robert Kelso, Lee Long, and others, immediately started for Ardmore. Soon a telegram was received announcing that the body would reach Krum on the Santa Fe at 6:30 Tuesday morning. A large number of citizens went to Krum, seven miles distant, to meet the body, including a committee of the Knights of Pythias, of which order the deceased was an honored member. The body reached Denton at about nine o'clock, Tuesday morning, and was conveyed to the residence of the father, C. A. Williams, accompanied by the widow of the deceased and several children. The scene here presented was heart-rendering and indescribable. Mr. Williams, the father, was almost completely prostrated and the grief of the stricken wife and dependent children melted to tears the stoutest hearts. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Cole, of the First Baptist church, and the remains were followed to the Odd Fellows' Cemetery by a line of vehicles which stretched from the public square to the cemetery, preceded by the firemen and the Knights of Pythias, the latter taking charge of the ceremonies at the grave.... Mr. Williams was forty years and about four months of age - born in this city in 1857 - and raised here.... -Denton Monitor, Saturday, June 12, 1897, p.2 (from reel of miscellaneous newspapers on microfilm) | | | | | |

| Aurora, Nov. 3. - News reached here this morning of the sad death of John H. Williams, son of Henry Williams living near Briar. John was helping Geo. Russell dig an old well deeper on Johnny Shankles' place, about 6 miles south of here. They had put in a blast and had blasted up a good deal, when John proposed that one of them go down, but Russell had some other business to attend to right then and told him to wait till he got back. When Russell returned Williams was down in the well about ten feet, with his foot in a loop of the rope. He had not more than reached the bottom when he called to draw him out. Mr. Russell thinks he had drawn him about 15 feet, when he felt a jerk. He made a second draw, and his load was loose, the damp having struck him and the fall killed him before he could be taken out. He fell on his head, and a great gash was cut in his forehead. He leaves many friends to mourn his loss. -Wise County Messenger, November 7, 1885, p.6, c.4 | | | | | |

| WING, Jim | Denton | City | | Sept. 20, 1892 | |
| FOULLY MURDERED. A Chinese Laundryman's Head Crushed While at Work in His Laundry. Some one or ones perpetrated a heinous, mysterious and certainly unprovoked murder in Denton Monday night or Tuesday morning. >Tom Bentley, a young man who works at the Alliance Mill started to work at a few minutes before 7 o'clock Tuesday morning and as he had some shirts at the chinese laundry, he concluded to go by and get them. the laundry is in an old law office that once stood at the southeast corner of the square, but which was some years ago moved on the vacant lot on the south side of East Oak street, belonging to Mrs. Nannie Kowalty. For several years it has been occupied by chinamen, and for the past few months by Jim Wing. >when Bentley arrived the front door was closed but not fastened. He knocked a few times, but the Chinaman did not respond. He went to the window on the west side of the door and saw him lying on the floor, but thought that he was asleep. He again knocked on the door but to no avail. He then pushed upon the door and saw that Jim Wing's head, was in a pool of blood. Bentley hastened to the square, spread the alarm and a number of people were soon on hand, among them a NEWS reporter. | | | | | |
| The Chinaman was lying on his back, his head under a shelf that contains bundles of laundered cloths, a slipper was on his right foot while his left slipper was lying in the center of the floor. A lamp was still burning over his ironing table, by the side of which he had fallen. On this table was his account book and clothes, checks. His book was open, a pencil was on it and some loose checks were also near. >His skull was crushed in three places, once over the left temple, once on top and once on the back. A car coupling pin covered with fresh rust was on the floor and the general supposition is the wound were made with this. >The first and general belief was that he was murdered and then robbed, but further investigation seems to have upset this theory, as $189.00 was found in the house. Nothing was tumbled up, his pockets were not turned or other signs of robbery visable. The money was found in a box on his bed, excepting some small pieces he kept in a dish near his work table convenient for change. >Dr. Edwards, who examined the body says he could not have been dead more than two hours before Bentley found him. But who killed him and for what purpose are an unsolved mystery. Some think it was in a difficulty over a washing, but as the coupling pin must have been the weapon, it seems that the deed was premeditated. Others think it possible that he was a member of the chinese Highbanders and that he was murdered for secret divulgence. On the other hand if robbery was the intention, the robber was certainly not rewarded with much booty. | | | | | |

| Squire McCormire held an inquest and rendered the following decision: "That the deceased Jim Wing came to his death about 5 o'clock a.m., Sept. 20th, 1892, from three blows on the head inflicted by some unknown party." Chi Chung and Jim Lee, the former a cousin and the latter a brother of the deceased, arrived in Denton yesterday and took charge of the remains. >Chi Chung says that one of the four loose checks has no bundle in the house to match it and that there is 35 cents due on the missing bundle. He thinks it likely that the owner of this bundle and the deceased got into difficulty about the clothes and thereby hangs the tale. The remains were to have been shipped to Dallas last night for burial. >At time of going to press (6 p.m. yesterday) no arrests have been made and the officers disclaim having any trace of a clew to the perpetrator of the deed. -Denton County News, Sept. 22, 1892, p3. c.3. | | | | | |

| A CHILD BURNED TO DEATH. PILOT POINT, TEX., Jan. 6. -An accident occurred last Friday to an immigrant family, which resulted in the death of one of the family. The evening previous they passed through the town, the father purchased a bottle of alcohol and partook freely of strong drink. They camped on the banks of the Elm a few miles from town. A little ten-year-old daughter was sitting or lying beside the camp-fire when the father, in a fit of drunkenness, threw the bottle of alcohol in the direction of the girl. Striking something it burst and scattered the fluid over her, which in an instant caught fire, burning her in a frightful manner and causing her death in a short time. -Fort Worth daily gazette, Jan. 7, 1885, p.4. | | | | | |
